SUBSTANTIAL EXPANSION OF ROYAL AIR FORCE IS PLANNED

U.S. REPLY TO BRITAIN ON WAR DEBTS

If $85,670,000 Paid Then Outside Johnson Act.

INITIATION OF PROPOSALS ADVOCATED

London, To-day.

If Great Britain pays her June 15 war debt instalment of U. S. $85,670,000 she will remain outside the scope of the Johnson Act, states the American reply to the British debts note.

Should Britain submit proposals for the resumption of payments the United States will gladly discuss them, it adds.

No proposal has ever been presented for payments in kind to an extent that might be found mutually practicable, and such a proposal would be carefully considered, it continues.

COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE

The reply reiterates the complete independence of the Allies' debts to Britain and the British debts to the United States and the repayment of the latter cannot be contingent on the fate of the debts due to Britain.

It adds that the position seems to be that Britain does not intend to pay further until the debts are scaled down to an unascertained sum to which Britain might agree. Such a situation calls for the initiation of proposals by the debtor and not by the creditor.

The reply notes that Britain does not intend to repudiate the debt. It concludes that the American people are not disposed to place an impossible burden on debtors. — Reuter.

ALTERNATIVE PAYMENT

Washington, To-day. Observers believe that the payment in kind proposal, applicable to all war debtors, will possibly open the way to discussion by the United States on the acceptance of rubber, tin, radium, and other necessities instead of cash.—United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

HOLLAND URGES GOLD BLOC

Importance Stressed By Netherlands' Bank.

BELGIUM MAINTAINS TO GOLD STANDARD

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received June 13, 4.52 a.m.)

Amsterdam, To-day.

The Netherlands' Bank report issued yesterday, states that it considers the formation of a gold bloc very important. It also warns against devaluation.

The Government maintains its intention to maintain the gold standard and is not prepared to discuss the matter further at present.

It points out that international trade was reduced, following the failure of the World Economic Conference.

A message from Brussels states that the new Cabinet has decided to maintain the gold-standard.—United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

VICTOR HOO RETURNING TO SHANGHAI

Berne, To-day. Mr. Victor C. Hoo, Chinese Minister to Switzerland and Secretary-General to the Chinese delegation to the League of Nations left here yesterday for Shanghai.—Reuter.

50 NEW SQUADRONS IN SCHEME

20 AERODROMES AND BIG INCREASE IN PERSONNEL

APPROXIMATE PARITY WITH FRANCE

London, To-day.

Following the recent pledges made by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, Britain will seek parity in the air with the greatest air Power within striking distance if no limitation agreement is obtainable.

The Air Ministry is preparing plans for a substantial expansion of the Royal Air Force and these will be submitted to the Cabinet.

The scheme is likely to make an addition of at least 50 new squadrons, equivalent to 600 machines over a period of years, 20 new R.A.F. aerodromes, and a great increase in personnel.

Excluding 100 machines in India, Britain has 800 first line and about 130 second line air-craft.

THE CONTEMPLATED ADDITION WILL PLACE BRITAIN ON APPROXIMATE PARITY WITH FRANCE.—REUTER.

CLUES LEAD NOWHERE IN VICE-CONSUL SEARCH

Atmosphere Growing More Tense In Nanking

Nanking, To-day.

All the clues to the whereabouts of the missing Japanese Vice-Consul, Mr. Kuramoto, who has not been seen since Friday evening, have proved negative.

There are no fresh developments, but the atmosphere is growing more tense.—Reuter.

ARSON GANG AT WORK IN SHANGHAI

British-Owned Garage Victimised.

ALLEGED STRIKE SEQUEL

Shanghai, To-day.

Four hire cars, two of which belonged to the British-owned Taylor garage and two to the Chinese-managed Johnson Taxi Service were set on fire with phosphorus by an arson gang almost simultaneously last night in various parts of the Settlement, resulting in the injury of two chauffeurs and considerable damage to the vehicles.

The Settlement Police are looking out for the incendiaries, who are believed to be the leading spirits in the strike of Chinese drivers at the Taylor Garage, which started a few weeks ago and which is still continuing pending settlement.—Reuter.

WAY TO END U.S. STEEL STRIKE

Election Supervision.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received June 13, 4.52 a.m.)

Pittsburgh, To-day.

The Rank and File representative, Mr. Forbeck states that if the Government supervised the election of an employees' representative it would end the steel strike threat in the United States.—United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

LOCAL RAINFALL

Rainfall in the Colony during the 24 hours ending 10.30 a.m. to-day was 0.07 inch. The total rainfall since January 1, is 20.89 inches, against an average of 29.34 inches.

Britain is particularly concerned with the situation in the air as London is generally agreed to be the most vulnerable big capital in the world.

It is within the range of ordinary day bombers based anywhere within 300 miles and night bombers based 600 miles away. Bombing planes could, from such a distance, bombard London, and return safely to their base.

HELPLESS DEFENCE

The Royal Air Force, with its pitifully small fleet of 1,500 planes, would be almost helpless to defend the country, it is said. During the war, the R.A.F. comprised 20,000 aeroplanes and 300,000 men. In first line fighting air strength, Britain is almost on a par with such nations as Yugoslavia and Poland and is far below standard and technical development of other air powers.

488 FOR LONDON

Most of Britain's air force is scattered throughout the Empire with only 488 first-line fighting planes available to defend London from air attack. Ground defences against aeroplane attacks have been neglected.

New flying-boats, sufficient to equip at least two squadrons of the R.A.F., were recently ordered by the Air Ministry from Vickers Supermarine.

SAAR PLEBISCITE COMMISSION.

London, To-day.

A Geneva message states that, following conversations between the Governments concerned, the commission appointed to oversee the plebiscite in the Saar will be composed of M. De Jongh, of the Netherlands, M. Rode, of Sweden, and M. Henry, of Switzerland.—British Wireless Service.

100-Year-Old Waterloo Bridge To Be Rebuilt Out Of Revenue

London, To-day.

The London County Council, after a four-hour debate yesterday, adopted, by 76 votes to 47, the joint recommendation of the Highways and Finance Committees that immediate steps should be taken for rebuilding Waterloo Bridge out of the revenue.

Mr. Herbert Morrison, Chairman of the Council, gave an undertaking to the people of London that, whatever the cost of the work falling on the rates, the Council would not spend one penny less on housing, education and necessary services.

WARRANT FOR THE ARREST OF CHAN LIM-PAK

$10,000 BAIL IS ESTREATED.

FURTHER CHARGES MIGHT HAVE BEEN LODGED

Defendant In Canton.

An order for the issue of a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Chan Lim-pak, J. P., Managing Director of the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company, was made by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning, on the failure of Mr. Chan Lim-pak to appear in court to answer six charges of fraudulent appropriation and fraudulent keeping of accounts of the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company.

The Magistrate also ordered that the bail of $10,000 be estreated.

Mr. M. K. Lo, who appeared for the defence at the initial hearing a week ago, informed the Magistrate that just before he was due to come to Court he received a letter from Mr. Chan Lim-pak stating that the latter was called away to Canton on urgent business and asking him to apply for an adjournment.

The Magistrate immediately made an order for a warrant of arrest to be issued, and ordered the bail of $10,000 to be estreated.

FURTHER CHARGES PROPOSED. Mr. Edgar Davison, who prosecuted on behalf of the complainant, Mr. Johnson Wong, remarked that he had proposed to bring further charges, but under the present circumstances they would have to stand.

BELGIAN MISSION IN LONDON.

Audience With King This Morning.

London, To-day.

The Duc Dursel, head of the special mission to announce the accession of the King of the Belgians, arrived in London yesterday afternoon.

The Mission was met by Major-General Sir John Hanbury Williams, Marshal of the Diplomatic Corps, Admiral Sir Henry Buller, specially attached representative of the Foreign Secretary, and the Belgian Ambassador and his staff.

CHINESE LEAVES $85,000

Letters of Administration to the estate of the late Chan Chan-ping, who died a No. 29 Connaught Road on June 2, 1924, leaving local property valued at $85,000, have been granted to Chan Yiu-kai, a painter, of the same address.

100-Year-Old Waterloo Bridge To Be Rebuilt Out Of Revenue

The joint report of the Committees mentions that during the last five years substantial sums out of the rates had been set aside to meet the capital expenditure on rebuilding will involve.

Italian And German Example Followed By New Rulers.

Sofia, To-day.

Following the examples of Italy and Germany, the new Bulgarian Government has ordered the suppression of all political parties and organisations, and their newspapers.—Reuter.

"LEG THEORY" CONTROVERSY IN ENGLAND

SEVERE REPRIMAND FOR NOTTS.

OPPOSING COUNTY TEAM MAY WALK OFF FIELD

Sequel To Recent Exploitation Of Body-Line Attack

London, To-day.

The "Evening Standard" states that as a sequel to the recent "leg theory" tactics adopted by Nottinghamshire against Essex and Cambridge University against Sussex, representatives of two of the most famous counties, yesterday at Trent Bridge, the scene of the Test Match, informed the Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club that if fast "leg theory" bowling was used against their counties this season they would not under any circumstances agree to play Notts during the 1935 season.

It was even said that one of these counties was prepared to walk off the field and concede the points for the match during this summer, if fast "leg theory" bowling was introduced in.—Reuter.

BRITISH IMPORTS CURTAILED.

Denmark's Action.

London, To-day.

Dr. E. L. Burgin, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, stated in the House of Commons, yesterday, that the action of the Danish Government in reducing the number of licences for the import of certain British goods during the first four months of the present year had been the subject of representation to that Government.—British Wireless Service.

ALMOST BLOWS

NOMINATION OF TUGWELL APPROVED

NO "SOVIETISING" OF U.S.

LENGTHY CROSS-EXAMINATION OF NEW ELECT

WASHINGTON, TO-DAY.

POLICE WERE RUSHED TO THE CHAMBER YESTERDAY DURING AN UPROARIOUS SITTING OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE, WHICH DEBATED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S NOMINATION OF PROFESSOR TUGWELL FOR PROMOTION TO UNDER-SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

Several Senators nearly came to blows, but quiet was soon restored.

Prof. Tugwell, lengthily questioned, repeatedly denied that he wished to "Sovietise" the United States, and avowed his belief in the constitution and the national recovery measures taken by President Roosevelt.

The nomination, which is taken as an indication that President Roosevelt has attached little importance to the charges made last March, that the "Brain Trust" was planning to replace the existing social order by Communism, was eventually approved by 16 votes, to 2.—Reuter.

PROFIT TAX ON SILVER

Treasury Amendment Adopted.

MAY APPLY TO ORIENT TRADE

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received June 13, 4.52 a.m.)

Washington, To-day. In passing the Silver Bill on Monday, the United States Senate adopted the Treasury's amendment exempting from the 50 per cent. profit tax all but speculative profits.

Observers believe that if the conference adopts the Department regulations it will probably exempt bankers buying on the Shanghai Exchange and selling silver futures in New York in the process of legitimately financing trade between the United States and the Far East.—United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

Conference Now Unnecessary.

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received June 13, 4.52 a.m.)

Washington, To-day. It is indicated that the House of Representatives will concur with the Senate Silver Bill amendments, making a conference unnecessary. The House is expected to consider the amendments before the week-end.—United Press, per S.C. Gold Bar Co.

NEW IDEAS SEEN IN FASHION DISPLAY.

Paris. Dancers preferring trains, which they gather up and either fold over the arm, or attach to the little finger by means of a concealed loop under the hem of the skirt were seen here recently. Decolletes simply gone haywire, taking all conceivable shapes, both back and front; the nude back with straps holding the front crossing and fastening with a jeweled pin at the back of the neck, the back slit into separate bands, boat-shaped necklines standing out all around with little difference in depth between the back and front; squarish necklines with the corners to stand up over the aligrettes or even birds poised at arms, drooping their wings back and front; sleeves are shredded in novel ways for the upper part of the arm and solid from the elbow to wrist on a number of dinner gowns.

NEW SHOULDER SILHOUETTE.

Paris. The sharp edge has been taken off our silhouette. In the future—the immediate future that is, which is as far as we are allowed to see—we are going in for rounded effects. This is most conspicuously realized where shoulders are concerned for it is here that angles have been prominent. But don't get the idea that we shall be round-shouldered. Nothing is more destroying to a well-groomed appearance. And this is why creating rounded effects not only is a difficult problem but a delicate one.

Strong And Healthy!

Sunny days at the sea-side, what a splendid way to build up health and strength, but even under such conditions little health troubles creep in. The child may eat something which upsets his stomach or he may get a sudden chill, whatever the cause may be a dose of Baby's Own Tablets will usually be all that is required to correct the trouble.

Wise parents have Baby's Own Tablets always handy whether they are at home or away on holiday, for they know that these tablets are the best means for keeping the little ones' internal organs clean and clear of waste matter, thereby preventing the development of disease germs which flourish in a congested food tract.

Pleasant in taste, children like them, and there is never any fuss about taking them. The prescription of a physician, Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to contain no ingredient likely in any way to harm the delicate internal organs of young children, and they may be given to the youngest infant in arms with perfect safety.

For constipation, indigestion, colds and croup, colic, "wind", feverishness, diarrhoea, worms, and other health troubles which assail little children, Baby's Own Tablets will be found of the greatest benefit, rapidly restoring the little one to normal health and strength. Chemists everywhere sell

BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

Business Outfit

For business and also for afternoon wear, Claudia Dell, the blonde motion picture star, shows advantage this charming summer costume. It consists of a black skirt and a trim blouse of plaid material with an unusual shoulder effect.

FOUNDATION GARMENTS BEAT SEAMLESS HIPS

Paris. Foundation garments of satin or batiste Lustex are fashioned with a diagonal pull at both sides, which eliminate the necessity for boning, even up to size 40. The fashioning automatically does away with side seams. This same construction applies to girdles, too, and a smoother idea has never been thought of.

EVENING WRAPS IN PARIS

Evening wraps run to cape motifs in fur—ermine, chinchilla, sable, mink and seal—and fabric, heavy fallies, satin, velvet, lame capes and Patou's sun-pleated and Schiaparelli's longer quilted chiffon models are popular here. When coats are worn they are usually three-quarter and cut on the swag line, attention being devoted to the sleeve and a rounded shoulder.

New Uplift Brassier For Day Or Evening.

For daytime and evening fashions that require a supple line, and are preferably worn with a lingerie-type of all-in-one garment, there is a new uplift brassiere that is really only half a brassiere. The upper portion of the bust is exposed, and the uplift line achieved by these little half-brassieres that are made of firm fabric, such as satin.

Sailor Hat Survives

The sailor hat survives in the midst of all this off-the-face furor. The newest sailors are very pert and youthful. They must be shallow, and worn at just the right tilting angle. Very young spring suits will do well to have a "sailor" sailor in reserve for a complete change of silhouette. Spring sailor hats are trimmed with ribbon bands in self or bright colours. Plaids are still another possibility. Feather bands in a riot of tropical colours add a dressy touch to sailors for wear with dressmaker suits.

WOMAN GOLFER'S RECORD

DOROTHY ROUND & AUTEUIL

ANOTHER HENDREN BENEFIT

(By ROVER)

MISS Gourlay's record round in the British Women's Golf Championship at Royal Porthcawl was due mainly to her brilliant short game. She was deadly with her chip shots, and holed out with such strokes at the second and thirteenth before another fine chip helped her to get a 4 at the home hole after she had pulled her second under a fence. Miss Gourlay's card read:

Out: 4, 3, 4, 3, 6, 4, 4, 5, 4—37.
Home: 4, 3, 5, 3, 3, 6, 4, 5, 4—37.
Total: 74.

MISS ROUND'S DECISION

I gather that Miss Round decided not to compete in the French championships several weeks before the entries closed. Immediately after Wimbledon last year she undertook a strenuous tour in America. She did not reach home until Christmas, having visited Hong Kong on her return journey. Later she went to Jamaica for more match play. She had only recently taken part in the British hard court championships at Bournemouth.

Miss Round is only human, and it seems natural she should desire a rest before the Wightman Cup matches this month and the championships at Wimbledon, which follow. I doubt, despite all that has been written to the contrary, whether her recognised objection to Sunday play has influenced her decision.

NEGRO BOXER WINS

Jimmy Tarante, coloured American cruiser-weight, knocked out Eddie Pierce, of South Africa, with a right-hand punch to the body in the fifth round of a 12 (3 min.) rounds contest at the Ring, London, recently.

It was a poor contest. Tarante did all the attacking and Pierce often ran into clinches to save himself. Tarante was knocked out by Len Harvey in his previous bout.

ENDEAVOUR'S RIVAL

The Velsheda, a sister yacht of the Endeavour, Mr. T. O. M. Sopwith's new America's Cup challenger, gave promise during the sailing recently of being the greatest rival of the Endeavour.

The meeting between the two yachts, built to the rules governing the America's Cup races, will be the most exciting and exciting yacht contest that has been sailed in British water for many years.

The Endeavour holds a slight superiority over the Velsheda in that she has secret wind-direction equipment enabling sails to be re-trimmed without loss of time should a change of wind occur.

SWIMMER RETIRING

Miss Joyce Cooper, the English champion, who has just returned to England from an Australian tour, has confirmed her intention of retiring from competitive swimming.

"Although I feel that I am swimming quite as well as in the past, I think I can only go downhill now," said Miss Cooper. "I do not mind being beaten, but I think champions should retire when at their best."

Asked whether she intended to give up racing immediately or at the end of the present season, Miss Cooper said: "There are the Empire Games ahead, but I have made no definite decision."

HENDREN'S BENEFIT

Middlesex have re-engaged Patsy Hendren for three years and promised him another benefit. Where would they be without him?

By the way, Hendren made three catches for Middlesex against Gloucester, and hit Goddard for

Close Harmony: "I've Got My Finger on You!"

Both Jimmy McLarnin (left), former world's welterweight champion, and Barney Ross, new holder and also lightweight champion, point "warning" fingers at each other after having signed contracts for their recent fight at Long Island Bowl. Ross astounded the critics by recording a well-deserved win on points over the holder.

CARNERA AS PARIS THIRD RATER

Trevor Wignall Tells How He Was Found COLOURFUL CAREER

THE fact that Primo Carnera, the giant Italian boxer who has risen in a few years to world champion, once fought in unimportant tournaments in Paris, is revealed by Mr. Trevor C. Wignall, one of London's leading sporting journalists.

Mr. Wignall said: "You must be interested in Carnera, and so a few words about the burly Italian will be of some interest. I think I had much to do with the early part of his career."

"THAT BIG FOREIGN CHAP." "It happened like this. Jeff Dickson, who was during the War a flying officer in the American Air Force, had arranged for some sort of tournament in London, but at the last moment one of his competitors died and other arrangements seemed to be failing.

Rather than go on with the job Dickson decided to throw up the sponge. I persuaded him, however, against such an action for the reason that his rivals would have a laugh over him.

TITLE BOUT ON THURSDAY

Though efforts were made to postpone the championship bout between Primo Carnera, world champion, and Max Baer, on account of the latter's untimely death, the match will be staged on Thursday.

I told him that if he wanted a man to fill the bill what about getting that big foreign chap who figured in one of those mild tournaments in Paris some months earlier. Neither he nor I knew the name. Eventually we traced the chap and he was brought to my office.

"HE HAS BRAINS"

"That he has brains was indicated by the way he handled my typewriter, the like of which apparently he had not seen before. He tried to use the keys but whenever he touched one two fell into place. He then flicked the edges with his finger and that certainly not only showed his thinking cap-three sixes, when he had a sore throat and a temperature of just one hundred. He played against orders because it was a sticky wicket.

city but also revealed the strength of the man, for I do not believe anyone could flick the keys of the machine in the same adroit manner as did Carnera that afternoon in my room.

"Seeing a good story for my paper I decided to give Carnera a front page announcement and secured photos of his foot, his face and his biceps and put them on the front page with those of my own for comparative purposes. It was a marvellous piece of advertisement and it told.

WATCHING THE GIANT EAT

"Even the cafes made Carnera a good medium, and one Soho restaurant advertised the fact that Carnera was to eat in that place and that it was worth going a long way to see him eat for he ate considerably. Now, that was not true, for few men eat less than does the giant Italian.

"I have never seen such a foot in my life and indeed so huge a man in the ring. Everyone now knows that Carnera never hits as hard as other boxers do. That is, he never uses his closed fist, for if he does it would mean instantaneous death to his receiver. He has found a method: he opens the fist in such a way that he gets a good hard shot that goes home. Well, that night in London Carnera made his debut receiving £100 a week as expenses for himself and his manager-trainer.

TALKIE ENTHUSIAST

"At the commencement of his boxing career he knew no English but now speaks a mixture of Oxford and boot-legger English, picked up at the talkies to which he regularly goes. It is remarkable how he has so soon learnt the language and as he told me, it was the desire to master it that took him to the talkies so frequently.

"And do you know he wears a gum shield fitted with teeth, and this enables him to look extremely ugly in the ring? There are innumerable legends built around him and I myself have been responsible for a few but there is mostly nothing in them; Carnera lends himself admirably to those queer stories.

Secretary of the Women's Auxiliary.

This amount, together with $231 retained by Mrs. Amps in respect of the 77 tickets sold by the Women's Auxiliary, brings the net amount received by the Women's Auxiliary for the S. P. C. to $957.44.

The S.C.A.A. desires once more to thank all helpers for the successful outcome of the Fete, and in particular the China Emporium Ltd., The Sincere Co., Ltd., The Sun Co., Ltd., and the Wing On Co., Ltd. for donating all the prizes in connection with the Fete.

SIDNEY LEE BEATS INMAN.

Debut Win For New Professional.

It is remarkable that young Sidney Lee, the amateur billiard champion, who recently joined the professional ranks, has won his first match under his new status. He was matched with Inman, and given 2,000 start in a fortnight's play. Lee won, after an interesting match in which he frequently outaveraged Inman, by more than his start.

Lee, whose father is a hotel proprietor at Streatham, may develop in time into a compeer of the giants of the professional arena.

Prince was there to see him and apparently His Royal Highness, too, was fascinated by the great big Italian and invited him to supper. That was at Albert Hall and Stribling was his opponent. That was a memorable match for the referee gave the Italian the verdict on a foul. Stribling had previously knocked down Carnera for a count of nine seconds. Three weeks later they met in another match, which Stribling won on a foul.

"Carnera has had a colourful career and has won most of the big fights in which he has figured. In Rome I saw him beat Paolino Uscudum, the Spanish Basque, easily. On that occasion S'gnor Mussolini witnessed a boxing match for the first time. On Feb. 26 last he beat Tommy Loughran at Miami, Florida."

EASY VICTORY FOR K.C.C.

Club Overcome C.R.C. "C".

THREE "A" DIVISION MATCHES WASHED OUT

Only two of the "A" Division Lawn Tennis League matches scheduled to take place yesterday were played, the other three being cancelled owing to wet courts.

At home, the Kowloon Cricket Club defeated the Chinese Recreation Club "B" team without difficulty, by 6 sets to 3, while at Causeway Bay the Hong Kong Cricket Club defeated the Chinese R. C. "C" team by 7 sets to 2.

The United Services courts, where the Chinese R. C. "A" team were to have met the Services, are being re-turfed and the spare courts were too sodden for play.

FINCHER BROTHERS ON FORM

GOOD EXHIBITION BY TAM YOC-FONG

THE Kowloon Cricket Club recorded their fourth win by defeating the Chinese Recreation Club "B" team by 6 sets to 3 at home in the "A" Division Lawn Tennis League yesterday.

Horace Lo was a notable absentee from the C.R.C., being replaced by Tso Ching-yu. Wet courts necessitated a dressing of sawdust, which slowed play considerably. The Chinese, who were very fast, found difficulty in retaining their balance.

The Fincher brothers played well, winning their three sets for the loss of only six games. In their set against Lu Tak-lam and Tam Yoc-fong they combined well, baffling the Chinese pair throughout. Ernie Fincher played a strong game, his cross court drives being most effective, while Toddie's play was steady and accurate. Although beaten the Chinese pair played gamely to the end of the set.

Former Champion on Form F. Grose and A. E. P. Guest played a slow and careful game against Ng Sze-kwong, former singles champion, and C. C. Chiu. Ng's game was not fast enough for the well-placed shots of his opponents, but his volleying and smashing won him many points.

The set between Hyde and Rodger and Ng Kam-chuen and Tso Ching-yu was the best of the afternoon. Playing on the best court, the K.C.C. pair started well. The Chinese, however, rallied, to go out at 6-3.

Scores: E. C. Fincher and E. F. Fincher (K.C.C.):—

beat Ng Sze-kwong and C. Chiu 6-2 beat Lu Tak-lam and Tam Yoc-fong 6-3

"Shorts Are Lucky To Me" Says American Woman Tennis Ace

Miss Helen Jacobs, who arrived in Paris from Milan just ahead of the other members of the American Wightman Cup tennis team, stated that she had every intention of playing in shorts at Wimbledon as she did in the French Championships.

"Shorts have proved very lucky to me ever since I played in them in the American final last year against Mrs. Wills-Moody," she said. The French officials decided that there should be no ban upon women wearing shorts in the French championships.

"English girls need have no compunction about wearing shorts," declared a leading official of the French Federation, "al-

HUDDERSFIELD WIN SOCCER IN COPENHAGEN

Derby County Beaten By Germany On Tour

Several English football clubs played matches on the Continent recently. In Copenhagen Huddersfield Town defeated a combined Copenhagen team by 2 goals to 0, but in Cologne Derby County lost to Germany by 5-0.

Manchester City in Florence drew with Fiorentina F.B.A. 3-3, after being led by the odd goal of three at half-time.

SWEEPING VICTORY FOR H.K.C.C.

Kwok And Liang Only C.R.C. "C" Scorers.

ALTHOUGH deprived of their best players, L. Goldman, W. A. Duff and G. R. M. Ricketts, the Hong Kong Cricket Club defeated the Chinese Recreation Club "C" team by the comfortable margin of 7 sets to 2 in the "A" Division Lawn Tennis League at Causeway Bay yesterday.

G. W. Sewell gave a very creditable performance on his first appearance in "A" Division tennis, and, in spite of lack of practice, played a very sound game.

R. H. Wild bore the brunt of his sets in partnership with H. J. Armstrong, whose play was not up to "A" Division standard.

The best C.R.C. pair were F. H. Kwok and S. W. Liang, who won two of their three sets. Kwok was very strong on his fore-hand and back-hand, although somewhat reckless at times. His partner played a steady game.

The majority of the C.R.C. men have been playing tennis for a little more than a year, but gave a spirited, although unpolished exhibition.

Scores:

AUSTRALIA WIN TEST CRICKET BY 238 RUNS

WOODFULL'S TIMELY DECLARATION

O'REILLY REVELS ON A WEARING WICKET

LEYLAND'S PLUCKY RESISTANCE

With only 10 minutes to spare Australia beat England by 238 runs in the first cricket Test match at Trent Bridge yesterday, following Woodfull's declaration half an hour before lunch.

O'Reilly was the hero of the match, securing 7 for 54 on a wicket which was showing signs of wearing. England failed miserably in their effort to secure 380 in four hours 50 minutes.

London, To-day. There were 12,000 spectators present yesterday at Trent Bridge for the fourth and last day of the first Test match. The weather was sunny with the wicket wearing.

Brown (37 not out) and McCabe (74 not out) continued Australia's second innings, and took the overnight score of 159 for 3 wickets to 181, before McCabe was caught in the slips by Hammond off Farnes. He made 88 which included one 6 and 15 boundaries. His innings was a magnificent one, lasting one hour and 40 minutes. 181-4-88.

Darling joined Brown but had only scored 14 runs when he fell a second victim to Hammond off the Essex fast bowler. 219-5-14. Meanwhile, Brown, who was joined by Chipperfield, batted patiently. Chipperfield, however, failed and became the third victim to the Hammond-Farnes combination, being sent back to the pavilion after scoring only 4 runs. 231-6-4.

Ames' Amazing Catch. A highlight of the morning's play came when Leslie Ames took a brilliant catch behind the wickets to dismiss Brown who was at the wicket for 265 minutes, scoring 73. Ames appeared to drop the ball but he kicked it up from his toe and brought off an amazing catch. Brown batted stolidly, never going for the bowling. He hit only 3 boundaries. 244-7-73.

Oldfield had scored 10 runs when O'Reilly skied a ball from Geary, which Verity, fielding at backward point, held. 267-8-18. Grimmett then joined Oldfield and after 6 more runs had been added, Woodfull declared the innings closed at 12.30 p.m. The score then stood at 273 for 8 wickets.

Careful Batting. Faced with the task of scoring 380 runs for victory in four hours 50 minutes, Walters and Sutcliffe batted very cautiously. When lunch was taken England had scored 27 without loss, Walters scoring 17 and Sutcliffe 10.

With the score at 51, Sutcliffe was caught low down at first slip by Chipperfield, the ball from O'Reilly, spinning off his bat. 51-2-24.

Hammond then joined the England skipper and after adding 32 runs was smartly stumped by Oldfield off Grimmett. 83-2-16.

The Nawab of Pataudi next came in, but with the score at 91 Walters was bowled neck and crop by an off break from O'Reilly. Walters' effort was a gallant one and during his stay at the crease he scored 46, which included seven 4's. 91-3-46.

Hendren joined the Nawab. The latter however, soon picked out Grimmett's wrong ball to hit and sent a skid which Ponsford held at deep mid-off. 103-4-10.

Maurice Leyland joined Hendren and at 110 the hero of England's stand in the first innings was caught by Chipperfield, who took a very low catch off O'Reilly's faster delivery. 110-5-3.

The score at the tea interval was 115 for five, Leyland having 6 to his credit with 4 extras.

Leyland's Stand. Leyland was playing magnificently, stone-walling, fighting for time.

Ames, who joined him after tea, did not stay long. He was taken by O'Reilly playing an off spinner. He only scored 12, but was at the wicket for 70 minutes. 134-6-12.

Geary was out for a "duck"

Chipperfield caught him low in the slips off Grimmett. 135-7-0.

Then Leyland was caught by Oldfield, off O'Reilly, after having put up a splendid resistance for two solid hours, in which he scored 16. 137-8-18.

The heart seemed to go out of the England side, for the next wickets came down in rapid order. Time was growing short, too, which made it exasperating. Farnes went out for a "duck," having followed Verity to the crease when Leyland was caught. 137-9-0.

Mitchell joined Verity. It was the last hope. There was not more than half an hour's play. The batsmen were careful. Mitchell scored very slowly, while Verity did not score at all.

O'Reilly's, however, finished off the match, when he took Mitchell's wicket with a leg spinner to give Australia victory by 238 runs with only 10 minutes to spare.—Reuter.

AMERICA'S CUP DEFENDER

Cable Engine Stops At Launching

35 MINUTES LULL

Bristol, Rhode Island, May 15. A yacht of gleaming whiteness and burnished bronze was named "Rainbow" here to-day. She then slid down the ways as the chief hope of the New York Yacht Club to defend the America's Cup in the fifteenth contest.

Mrs. Harold S. Vanderbilt, wife of the organizer of the syndicate which built the boat, broke a ribbon-bedecked bottle of champagne over the bows of the vessel and said: "Christen thee Rainbow and wish thee success." The hull, comprising £40,000-worth of lead, bronze, steel, Michigan pine and labour, moved slowly into a murk of drizzle and fog and then stopped like a hesitant maiden dipping one toe into the water.

300 Guests Marooned. The engine letting out the cable to the cradle supporting the Rainbow had developed trouble and stopped. The 300 invited guests marooned in the gloom of the Herreshoff shipyard shed, speculated whether this delay was part of the programme, while Mr. Vanderbilt paced the shed restlessly.

In thirty-five minutes the engine began to run again. The Rainbow, leaving the ways down which every defender of the Cup since 1903 had slid, rested easily in the water, riding high because her mast, rigging and some of her fittings were still to be installed.

Mr. Vanderbilt stated that her duralumin mast, 165ft. in height, and the finest in construction that science could devise, would be stepped and the rigging be buckled home at once. He hoped to be at her helm to-morrow, weather permitting, for her first spin under sail.

INDIA'S TEST CRICKET CLAIMS

EFFORT TO SECURE SAME FOOTING AS AUSTRALIA

INVITATION TO S. AFRICA

Bombay, May 20.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT EFFORTS WILL BE MADE AT THE FORTHCOMING IMPERIAL CRICKET CONFERENCE TO PUT INDIA ON THE SAME FOOTING AS AUSTRALIA WITH REGARD TO TEST MATCHES.

It is widely felt that the time has arrived when India can claim that recognition and the two representatives on behalf of India at the Conference will do their utmost to arrange regular four year fixtures with England instead of having to ask for a fixture and to depend upon luck.

NOTTS TAKE POINTS FROM SUSSEX

Surrey Inconsistency Continues.

WINLAW AGAIN IN FORM

London, To-day.

Sussex, most serious southern challengers for the County Cricket Championship, received a setback yesterday at Horsham when Notts topped their first innings total by 19 runs as the result of a century by Harris, one of the most promising young all-rounders in England.

Surrey again gave evidence of their inconsistency when they lost to Essex at the Oval, after having secured a lead of 21 runs on the first innings. Jack O'Connor recorded his fourth century of the season in this match.

R. de W. K. Winlaw, the Light Blues' Hon. Secretary, followed up his 161 not out against Essex by scoring 103 against the Free Foresters, for whom D. R. Wilcox, last year's Cambridge skipper, scored 119.

E. T. Killick, favoured by many for the position of Sutcliffe's partner in the England eleven, reached three figures, while B. H. Valentine scored 102 while Kent were being beaten by Warwickshire.

The representatives will further try to arrange for an Indian side to tour England in the summer of 1936, and it is expected that the tour will be arranged without any difficulty.

With a view to providing an opportunity for Indian players to gain more experience the representatives will also try to obtain sanction for a South African team to visit India next year.

The South African unofficial side will represent the suburban cricket associations of the Dominion and will be constituted entirely of a coloured eleven.

The South African team has already expressed its willingness to do so and games will be played all over India, which will include also Test matches.

The number of Test matches to be played has not yet been decided but the moment the sanction of the Imperial Conference has been obtained, formal invitations will be sent out and the tour program will be drawn up.

NO DISCUSSION OF "BODY-LINE". The representatives on behalf of India at the Imperial Conference will not enter into any controversy about "body line" bowling but will generally abide by the decision of the M.C.C. on this question.

VARSITY GRADUATES IN ENGLAND

Engineering Students Praised.

ENGLAND WANTS MORE.

Excellent reports regarding the engineering graduate apprentices of the Hong Kong University already in England, have been received from British industrialists, according to Sir William Hornell, C.I.E., in his annual report, who states that requests have been made for more graduates than the University can supply.

The report states that they have not only worked well, but they have adjusted themselves easily and spontaneously to the conditions which obtain in English factories and English industrial towns. They are happy and popular.

British industrialists want graduates who have specialised in mechanical or electrical engineering, not those who have taken the civil engineering course.

VARSITY FINANCES DECREASE

Record Enrolment In March 1934.

SPECIAL GOVERNMENT GRANT DISCONTINUED

Although the student enrolment of the Hong Kong University increased steadily in 1933, the income of the institution decreased from $1,080,180 in 1932 to $966,055 last year. This is disclosed in the annual report of the University issued yesterday.

Enrolment of students at the increased from 339 in 1932 and 366 in 1933 to the record figure of 428 at March 13, 1934.

In spite of this, income has decreased from $1,080,180 in 1932 to $966,055 last year, the outstanding feature of the financial condition being the declining yield in the University's investments.

The Government grant of $350,000 was repeated both during 1932 and during 1933, but the special grant of $25,000 towards the maintenance of the School of Chinese Studies has been discontinued.

In 1933 the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce withdrew its annual grant of $10,000. The grant of $1,000 which the Chinese Chamber of Commerce has made for some years was not paid during 1933 but the Committee of the Chamber is now negotiating with the University for the conversion of what was a general grant into a special fund for a scholarship or scholarships.

The Asiatic Petroleum Co. (South China) Ltd. still continue their contribution of free fuel oil to the University Workshop and the Power House.

ARCHITECT'S ATTACK ON MODERN ART

Functionalism Theory Condemned.

"DISASTROUS FALLACY"

London. A violent onslaught on certain phases of modern art was delivered in London recently by Sir Reginald Blomfield, R.A., the eminent architect, in an address to the English Speaking Union.

There was yet some hope in our architecture, he said, though our young men were trying to run before they could walk.

He could find no saving clause in the procedure of "modernism" painters, sculptors, writers and musicians.

Sir Reginald found throughout the same anxiety to startle at all costs. He proceeded:

"This might be comparatively harmless, but there is another phase of some modernist sculpture which is not."

"And that is the slant to the hideous and unclean, to matters which by tacit consent of civilised people have hitherto been left in abeyance."

"The modernist sails as near the wind as the police will allow him, and, as the police do not visit modern galleries, this gives him a fairly open field."

"Disastrous Fallacy"

"Functionalism" and "sur-realism," Sir Reginald declared, constituted "a revolutionary wave from the Continent which, if not diverted into reasonable channels, will either end in the bankruptcy of the arts or the mad-house."

Referring to the Functionalism theory that "beauty and efficiency are convertible terms," Sir Reginald said:

Speaking as an artist, I cannot imagine a more disastrous fallacy than this artist, I cannot imagine a more muddled-headed thinking. It cuts at the root of Art, and confuses the intellect with emotion.

"If the satisfaction inspired by efficiency is the same in kind as the emotion we may feel in the Sistine Chapel it will be necessary to reconstitute the whole psychology of man, and apparently this is what the modernists want us to do."

"They assume that man can turn his soul upside down as easily as he can turn his coat."

"The immense arrogance of their position is something new in the world. Nobody so far has claimed to bring everything to a dead stop and to begin all over again, as if the past had never existed at all."

ACTORS' ORPHANAGE NEW PRESIDENT

Mr. Noel Coward.

Mr. Noel Coward has accepted the presidency of the Actors' Orphanage in succession to the late Sir Gerald du Maurier. Mr. Coward has intimated that owing to his present and future commitments he will not be able immediately to devote as much time to the work of the Orphanage as he would wish, but that as soon as his engagements permits he will endeavour to uphold the fine traditions so worthily established by Sir Gerald.

Out of respect to the memory of Sir Gerald, the "Grand Giggle" will be omitted from the list of attractions at the theatrical garden party on behalf of the Orphanage, which is to take place at the Botanical Gardens, Regent's Park, on June 18.

SHAKESPEARE IN CHICAGO.

For Benefit Of "Grand Rapid Mugs."

Shakespeare as the author of "tabloids" showing 12 times a day at a fair—that is the somewhat disconcerting vision conjured up by an enterprising showman in America.

The idea is to reproduce the original Globe Theatre in the English Village section of the Chicago World's Fair for the benefit of "the mugs from Grand Rapids," as an American grand puts it. "In order to get turnover at the box-office," we read, "Shakespeare's something snappy."

When NERVES GO WRONG

FEAR of eventual results—mistakes—disasters—bad news—reverses—casualties—accidents, etc., play havoc with the nervous system because the emotions seem to overpower the reasoning faculties. When nerves go wrong, physical well-being suffers. It is evidenced with headaches—nervousness—conditions of irritability—sleeplessness, etc. 'ASPRO' is the remedy. You should have it on hand ready for any emergency. 'ASPRO' soothes and steadies the nerves immediately. You don't have long to wait for relief. 'ASPRO' dispels nerve pains. It relieves the most violent headaches in from 5 to 10 minutes. 'ASPRO' changes sleepless nights into restful sleep. 'ASPRO' is pure medicine in tablet form that can be taken anywhere at any time. It contains no dangerous drugs and there are no injurious after-effects. Always remember that 'Aspro' does not harm the heart.

Two simple methods of giving 'ASPRO' to the kiddies are: (a) with a little milk or (b) break the tablet up and administer in a teaspoonful of jam. The dosage is: Children 3 to 6 years, 1/2 tablet; 6 to 14 years, 1 tablet; 14 to 16 years 1 1/2 tablets. 'ASPRO' like any other medicine should not be given to babies under 3 years of age without medical advice.

Why 'ASPRO' Has a Universal Sale

The one big reason why 'ASPRO' has a universal sale is because it has a universal use. It helps all from children to parents. It relieves all kinds of aches and pains. It is the quickest finisher of colds and influenza ever discovered. It relieves rheumatism in one night, and saves many a good tooth if it is taken for toothache. ## SCIENCE PROTECTS YOU AGAINST DANGEROUS DRUGS

'ASPRO' Does Not Harm the Heart

Don't meddle with dangerous drugs. You take no chances when you use 'ASPRO'. 'ASPRO' is the safe, sure, certain tablet. It does not harm the heart or cause stomach troubles. Furthermore, it does not produce any injurious after-effects.

BRITISH ART FOR BRITISH GOODS

Lord Ebbisham's Plea.

Fourteen European countries are represented at an exhibition of international advertising design and material, arranged by "Advertising Display," and opened by Lord Ebbisham, president of the Advertising Association, at the New Burlington Galleries recently.

Lord Ebbisham said there existed not so long ago a conventional belief that Central European advertising art was the best; in fact, that it was the only advertising art. Lord Ebbisham said: "It used to be said in Bloomsbury that the only really good advertising printing was done in France, and you might sometimes find a French imprint on a booklet circulating in England, selling English-made goods to English people."

"Now look round the exhibition," he added, "and say whether we should not banish our diffidence and proclaim boldly that we lead the world in this particular sphere. British advertising needs British design and British material. In your hands rests the responsibility of seeing that British advertising art shall not merely be a mixture of other countries' techniques, but shall have an essentially national character of its own."

plays will be acted down to 40 minutes' running time. No more soliloquies for Hamlet. Instead of going through the entire to be or not to be recitation, he will just say, 'Aw, nuts!' and go into his good impression with some of his dance. Anthony will have to 'cut out that 'Friends, Romans and countrymen' harangue and get something snappy."

"Ladies In The House"

Pageant Of Parliament Episode.

Among the episodes in the "Pageant of Parliament" will be one entitled "Ladies in the House." This refers to an incident which took place in 1778.

A member who was a sea captain was making a speech in which he was most anxious to make a good impression with some of his good women friends. The Strangers' Gallery was therefore packed with people he knew.

But the House was at that time also a favourite resort of ladies of quality, and when the Duchess of Gordon and her entourage came in the captain's friends were disappointed of their seats. But the ladies, refused to be turned out, and moved down on mats to the floor of the House, which they proceeded to occupy until the close of the debate.

After that for 30 years the House decided to bar women, and the grille in front of the gallery was a permanent reminder of this quaint episode.

Japanese Competition.

Britain has found her trade in various parts of the world seriously diminished, and, in some cases, almost extinguished, by Japanese competition. Great Britain herself is a better customer of Japan than Japan is of Britain. British textile representatives invited the Japanese to meet them in conference to ascertain whether some arrangement could not be reached about the textile trade, so that the reduced world trade could be allotted on an equitable basis. The British section of the conference wanted a discussion on regional arrangements over practically the whole world. The Japanese representatives considered when they met the British in conference that the arrangement proposed was out of the question, because it involved foreign countries which might upset by quotas or tariffs any arrangement arrived at. In their turn the Japanese suggested that the discussion should be confined to the consideration of an agreement about the British home market and the market of the Crown colonies. Naturally the British representatives asked if this were all, why Japan had come to a conference at all. A nation has means of taking care of its own market. It would be in the foreign markets and in the markets of the Dominions that a contest, if it took place, would be most severe, and would be outside any legislative interference of either Great Britain or Japan.
All through, the attitude of Japan has been that of one believing she holds the winning hand. Her representatives have made no secret of the causes of her success of the past two years. She has so organised her industry, and has so cut her costs, that she can put certain goods on the market, especially those textile goods which lend themselves to mass production, at a price that the manufacturers of no other nation can approach. In effect, the Japanese delegation told the British delegation: "We studied the general world depression and came to certain determinations as to what were its important causes.

Then we set to work to bring down the cost of production to meet the impoverished buying power of the world. We mobilised all available human energy and every mechanical device at the expenditure of enormous capital outlay. That is the reason why we have retained our position." They should also have added, "and have improved it."
Instead they asked the question:
"Have other countries done as we have done?" Before ever the formal conference opened, British textile manufacturers declared that it was impossible to reduce costs sufficiently to meet Japanese competition. Costs might be reduced five or 10 or even 20 per cent. by some scheme of rationalisation, either vertically or horizontally or both. But that would not suffice, nor would, in some lines, 50 per cent. As one British manufacturer put it:
"Does any manufacturer wish to reduce the standard of living so that the British working-man would have to exist on water and rice instead of beef and beer?"

Britain's defence is limited, as far as one can see, to restriction of Japanese goods entering British markets. This is what the imposition of quotas means. In a contest of this nature Britain is in an advantageous position so far as her home market is concerned. Net imports from Japan into Great Britain last year were of the value of £7,070,000, while Britain's exports to Japan were of the value of £4,510,000. On the figures Japan would suffer more by restriction in the British market than would Britain by restriction in Japan's market.
But Japan might consider that she would suffer still more by the voluntary restriction in world markets which the British representatives in conference proposed. In that case she would prefer to risk the loss of the British market in order to maintain her position elsewhere.
Japan has another aspect of the problem to consider. What if Great Britain succeeds in drawing other nations in with her?
The sudden leap forward of Japanese manufactures of textiles and of pottery and the increase in Japan's export trade in these lines during the past two years, while the trade of her competitors has dwindled, have alarmed the nations concerned, which believe that they cannot compete. Japanese labour can live more cheaply, though it is said to be quite as well nourished as outside industrial nationals and to be content with its lot.
It responds to the appeal to patriotism, and will accept conditions of machine tending such as are rejected by British workers.

More Trouble For The League

The Hungarian protest at the Council meeting of the League against alleged frontier incidents on the Hungarian-Jugoslav frontier may have serious repercussions.

According to the Hungarians, innocent Hungarian peasants, who have inadvertently strayed across the Yugoslav frontier, have been brutally mistreated by the Jugo-slav authorities.

The Yugoslavs maintain that the "innocent Hungarians" are political terrorists, financed and armed by Hungary.

Discussion on the protest was postponed, but it cannot be indefinitely avoided.

Training Terrorists

For some time the Yugoslavs have been gathering data about the activities of anti-Yugoslav terrorists not only in Hungary but also in Italy. They claim to have definite proof of the existence of terrorist schools, financed with Hungarian and Italian money, at Yankapausta, in Hungary, and near Bari, in Italy.

At these schools it is alleged that young refugees from Jugo-slavia are trained in subversive tactics, and armed with bombs and revolvers.

Then they are employed to smuggle arms and explosives, destined for political assassinations, across the Yugoslav frontier.

Firm Tone In Frenchmen

Nazi Germany laments the decline in its birth-rate. For the past three years the French birthrate has actually been higher than the German.

If the present tendency is unchecked French statisticians believe that the populations of France and Germany will be stabilised in something like their present proportions within 10 years.

That is the duration of the German-Polish Pact, which is taken as a sign that Germany is not anxious for any irredentist adventure, at any rate for the moment.

Meanwhile France's colonial reserves grow.

Your Daily Smile!

A "mechanical nose," said to be far more sensitive than the human one, has been perfected by an American inventor. The only annoying thing about it is that it will perpetrate in superciliously turning itself up whenever it is confronted by an ordinary nose.

Propheteering

The motor-car salesman who got rid of his stock at knock-down prices.

The Man for the Job

The spiritualist who was neither too serious nor too gay—just the happy medium.

Salt Licks

I hear that the Post Office authorities contemplate a change in the recipe of the gum used on the "business" side of a postage stamp, in view of complaints from the public that the variety now in use is too "salty" in flavour says a Star writer.

Sir Kingsley Wood, the Postmaster-General gave a friend of mine another and more cogent reason for the proposed change.

"The salt taste makes people thirsty," he said. "In a drought year this is really not good business. So we must try something else."

My friend, an old political acquaintance, and opponent of the P.M.G.'s, realised that he was having his leg pulled.

Too Bad

According to a writer, one of the Balkan States has not been free from internal trouble since the war. What a State to get into.

An actress who called on a producer in the hope of getting a part acted a scene from The Taming of the Shrew in front of him. We understand that he offered her a contract in order to save the remainder of the office furniture.

A woman novelist is decorating her new home in pink and white.
So much for the rumour that it was to have purple passages.

ANOTHER LOOK AT GALLIPOLI

700 REVISIT SCENE OF BYGONE STRUGGLE

"HOW QUIET IT IS"

(By W. E. Stanton-Hope.)

A party of ex-Service men, representing every British regiment which fought in Gallipoli, and of friends and relatives of those who fell, left England recently in the C.P.R. liner Duchess of Richmond to re-visit the battlefields.

They numbered 700 in all. Lt.
Stanton Hope, who is the author of "Richer Dust," and writes this article, was one of the last officers to leave the Peninsula at the evacuation.

Constantinople.

HOW quiet it is! The remark is made by an ex-corporal of the famous 29th Division as the Duchess of Richmond approaches Gallipoli at dawn. And the same thought must occur to most of the other ex-Service men returning to the Peninsula.

The sky is pink over Asia, and the sea smooth. For our benefit Nature has reproduced similar weather to that at the landing nineteen years ago.

Debris Of War Days

At Khelia Bay, where the liner anchors, we board the Denizli, a ramshackle steamboat whose deck-plates are plastered with concrete, and journey back through the Narrows bordered by Kilid Bahr and Chanak. She creeps towards the ruins of Sedd-el-Bahr fort, and we see clearly the familiar V beach, looking strangely barren without the dug-outs and tents, and the collier River Clyde, which was run aground there laden with troops.

Much debris of the war days litters V Beach, as at Lancashire Landing, just round the cape.
Nearby, below the fort, peasants grow figs and olives.

Unveiled Turkish women sit along the low, sandy ridge where once a few British survivors sheltered from lashing shrapnel and machine-gun fire. They and their menfolk watch silently as we climb the slope to the Helles Memorial to do honour to our dead.

We disperse to find the remains of those bivouacs, trenches, and barricades best known to us. In company with a few others I tread again the old Krithia road, past the cypress grove through which I had last tramped on the night of the evacuation, January 8, 1916. The French dug-outs on the ridge bordering the grove remain well-preserved, but then the French had elephant iron roofing instead of the tarred blankets supplied to British troops. Several men, however, recognise the site of their own "rest camps," where the lines of former shallow dug-outs are faintly distinguishable.

Buried Treasure

We bathe in Morte Bay, in water crystal-clear and icy cold. It is wonderfully quiet—and "Asiatic Annie," the famous big gun across the Straits, is only a war-time memory.

British cemeteries mark the site of Skew Bridge, Pink Farm, Redoubt and Twelve Tree Copse, all well designed and beautiful with iris, stock and rosemary, the flower of remembrance. The Turks have a memorial, but they have never collected their own dead on Gall-ipoli.

Past Backhouse Post and far up on the left of the Krithia road, I readily recognised the Vineyard, once a shambling, although previously I had never had anything but a worm's-eye view of it. High-explosive blasted away every square foot of that tragic acre in the summer of '15, yet the vines, which have never been cultivated since, are freshly green in the Vineyard to-day, and, I am told, bore a crop of grapes for the first time last sesson.

Even in peace time, the hill Ach-i Baba frustrates us. Lack of time compels us to turn back.

It is good to get off the Peninsula to a hot bath and excellent meal in the liner. I inform several eager inquirers that there has been no time to locate the tree where I saw a man bury a purse in January, '16, but that in the Dardanelles towns and villages there have been rumours that a Sedd-el-Bahr peasant unearthed £45 in golden sovereigns last year.

My friend Lt. Connell, R.N.V.R., reports that he located a buried jar of rum, but that through over-eagerness he struck his entrenching tool against it, and the precious liquid drained into the ground.
However, knowing human scepticism, he has retained a fragment of the rum jar for "proof!"

Turks' Big Gun

Turkish notabilities from Chanak come off to dine in the Duchess of Richmond, and among them is the gentleman many of us would have given our Macconochie rations to have met in '15—the O.C. "Asiatic Annie."

Through an interpreter, I had a long chat with this officer, Mehmet Bey, a likeable kind of man with bald brown head and many rippling crow's-feet at the corners of his eyes. He tells me that Annie was roughly of 11in calibre, and the gun moved frequently its position in the In Tepe area of Asia, although she never "ran on rails," as many of our troops surmised.

He says also that, late in the campaign, a British monitor firing over Rabbit Island, in the Aegean Sea, scored a direct hit, killing five men and putting the gun out of action for six days.

In return I tell him how, on the last night of the evacuation, we had a bugler posted on Sedd-el-Bahr fort to sound the long G for warning each time he saw Annie's yellow flash. Mehmet Bey states that the warning bugle note reached him faintly across the Straits.

After a night's sleep, I do two things I have wanted to do for nineteen years—enter ruined Krith-ia village and scale the summit of Achi Baba. My companions are two ex-officers of the Royal Army Medical Corps.

Magnitude Of Task

The treacherous cliffs and nul-lubs of Achi, the well-stated trenches, the former gun emplacements, reveal clearly the magnitude of the Allied task. "A second Gibraltar," comments one of my companions, and the other on the summit remarks: "From here you can see everything except the unexploded shells at the bottom of the sea."

We return by way of the Valley of Soghani Dere, where the Turkish Field Ambulance had comfortable headquarters, and our ancient motor-car bumps over rough roads and broken bridges through Kilid Bahr and Moidos village, which once was razed by the guns of the British Fleet. Our chauffeur is an ex-captain of Turkish infantry who fought against us, and the 18-year-old youth who rides on the foot-board to replenish a leaky radiator with water at frequent intervals, lost his father in 1915, killed by a British shell.

On arrival back at Khelia Bay I see a former rating of our Royal Naval Division arm-in-arm with a Turk. The man, Blackburn, whom I knew well in the war days, has lost his left hand; the Turk has his right arm missing. Someone interprets the Turk's smiling comment on the situation: "We are brothers."

CHICKEN DIES IN MAN'S POCKET.

Policeman Reprimanded

Lo Fuk, a 27-year-old unemployed Chinese, was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. E. I.
Wynne Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning for stealing a small chicken, valued at 40 cents.

The Indian policeman, who arrested him, said that he found a live chicken in the defendant's pocket. He left it in his pocket and took him to the police station where it was found that the chicken was dead.

Mr. Wynne Jones remarked on the stupidity of the constable and said he should pay the 40 cents to the owner.

UNUSUAL DEBT CASE
DEFENCESon Admits Forging Father's Chop.DELIBERATE PERJURY ALLEGED AND JUDGMENT RESERVED

Judgment was reserved by Mr. Justice P. Jackson in an action brought in the Court of Summary Jurisdiction this morning by Yuen Kam-chuen, of No. 29, Tang Lung Street, against the Chun Mok-kee Tea House Firm, of Nos. 6a, and 6b, West Street, Quarry Bay, for $1,000, alleged to have been lent on a promissory note.

Mr. C. Y. Kwan represented the plaintiff, the defence being conducted by Mr. F. H. Loseby.

The case, which was adjourned from last Thursday afternoon, took an unusual turn this morning when Chun Yuen, son of Chun Mok-kee, owner of the defendant firm, giving evidence, admitted that he had committed theft and forgery, taking his father's chop for the purpose of chopping a promissory note for cash owed by him to the plaintiff.

Subjected to a severe cross-examination by Mr. Kwan, witness stated that he wrote and signed the promissory note, but that plaintiff would not accept it without a chop. He, therefore, went to his father's shop, removed the chop, chopped the note, and returned it, without his father's knowledge.

Closing his examination Mr. Kwan put it to witness that the money had actually been lent to his family, and that his father had chopped the note; this being a summary of plaintiff's evidence taken on Thursday last.

Witness denied that his father knew anything of the debt. He said the debt was his, and nothing to do with his family.

Mr. Loschy, addressing His Lordship, stated that either the plaintiff or defendant was committing deliberate perjury, their statements being so contradictory that no other view of the case could be taken.

Mr. Kwan stated that the chop was the most important thing in a Chinese business, and that it was most unusual for it to be allowed to lie about in a drawer where any unauthorised person could use it.

"The chop of a business of 40 years' standing, as this firm was, would be good for $1,000 on good-will alone," he said.

Drawing attention to Chun's evidence, he remarked that the testimony of a man who deliberately admitted theft and forgery could be of no value.

His Lordship reserved his judgment until he had had time to pursue the evidence.

WARRANT FOR THE ARREST OF CHAN LIM-PAK

Mr. Chan Lim-pak was arrested on Tuesday, June 5, on a warrant issued at the instance of Mr. Johnson Wong, whose address is given as 20, Fort Street, North Point.

Mr. Wong was formerly employed in the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company and is now assistant manager of the Nam Tai Hong, a company which acts as chief distributing agent for the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company.

The charges against the defendant were in respect of three sums of $500 each on March 31, July 31 and December 28, 1933.

FORMER BANK COMPRADORE

Mr. Chan Lim-pak first came into prominence about twenty years ago when he was compadore of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation at Shameen, Canton. In 1923 he attained some political importance when as Chairman of the Canton Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and as Commander of the Canton Merchants Volunteer Corps, he clashed with the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

His corps was broken up, after much bloodshed and destruction, and Mr. Chan Lim-pak had to leave Canton.

Mr. Chan has been Managing Director of the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Company for some years, besides being interested in a number of other business concerns, including the China Emporium, of which he is a Director.

PROMINENT SOCIAL WORKER

In addition to his extensive business interests, Mr. Chan Lim-pak also found time for work in philanthropic, social and sporting spheres. He is a former

FOREWORD

At Cannes, Mary is accepted at once by Lady Riversleigh's gay crowd. To her surprise she discovers that Tommy Trent, rich, amusing, irresponsible playboy whom she had known in New York is there. They go to a gay party.

CHAPTER V

THE party at Nina Port-alaiss's was all that Lady Riversleigh had said it would be—it was even more. Old and young, of all nationalities and seemingly of all ranks, were there, dancing, drinking, singing and making love. In the wild throng, Mary was surprised to see the Bagdalls—the Major one of the most formal of British army officers, his wife even more conservative if such a thing were possible, and their daughter who was so drab she looked and acted like a middle-aged spinster. Evidently the pace was too swift for them, for they were about to leave.

"Oh-ho!" taunted Tommy Trent, "so you are really Lady Rexford—not Mary Watts, after all. You look like yourself—you acted like it until you bumped into those frozen faces and then we poor white-trash don't mean a thing to you."

"Quiet," said Mary. "They're friends of Philip's."

"Mary, are you ashamed of your old friends?"

"Of course not—but I can't see any sense in snubbing—or shocking new ones. Just to prove I'm the old Mary, let's dance this one."

"Let's have a drink first—it's a rule of the house."

Erskine, who had decided to go to the party even if Mary and Trent had left him behind, shook his fist at them in mock anger, as he entered the room and went in search of Lady Riversleigh. He refilled her glasses and got himself a drink.

She was also summoned for failing to pay wages to her mui tsai. Sub-Inspector H. W. Fraser stated that the mui tsai had not been paid for four years. Defendant said that she had sent some money to the girl's mother in the village.

Craft and Probable Route of Roosevelt Cruise

Confident that Congress will finish up all major business by early June at the latest, President Roosevelt has set June 23 as the tentative date of departure for his cruise. Sailing from Annapolis, Md., on the cruiser Indianapolis, accompanied by an escort of two destroyers, the President will make his first stop at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where he will make an inspection. The second stop will be at San Juan, Porto Rico, and the third at Canal Zone after the trip through the Panama Canal. After the 4,685-mile trip across the Pacific, the President will spend two or three days ashore at Honolulu and probably make a motor tour of the island. He will be accompanied by his two youngest sons, Franklin, Jr., and John. Two or three members of the White House staff are also expected to make the trip.

CHESS CHAMPION VANQUISHED

Two-Minute Victory For 6-Year-Old Boy.

BELGRADE URCHIN'S FEAT

The President of the champion chess club of Yugo-Slavia has been beaten—by a 6-year-old boy.

The Ljubljana Chess Club were celebrating a victory over picked players from Belgrade in a cafe, when the proprietor asked the President, an old Professor to play against his son, aged 6.

"Of course," said the President indulgently, "Where is he?"

The urchin was pulled from under a table, made to wash his hands, and—with three cushions on the chair to enable him to see over the edge of the table—sat down opposite the Professor.

The game began amid the laughter of the guests.

After a few moves, the small boy electrified his audience by taking the Professor's queen.

So his distinguished opponent, with furrowed brow, settled down to serious play.

Little Milorad was mated time after time—but, somehow, he always managed to extricate himself from the Professor's traps.

"I'll give you a shilling—if you win," cried the boy's father excitedly.

Milorad grinned—and, two minutes later, he had won the game!

He learned to play by watching the customers in his father's cafe. Now, although he can neither read, write nor add up figures, he can beat them all.

His feat in beating the astonished President of Yugo-Slavia's champion chess club indicates that he will grow up to be a world champion.

But Milorad confesses that he really prefers a game of marbles! —Reuter.

CHINESE HONOUR FOR MUSSOLINI.

Decorated At Banquet.

The Chinese Minister to Rome, Gen. Liu Wen-tao gave a banquet in honour of Signor Mussolini, the dinner being attended by Count Ciano del Cortellazzo, formerly of Shanghai, the Under-Secretary of State, Flavio Suvich, Marquis Marconi, and other well-known public figures of Italy.

During the dinner the host presented II Duce with the Grand Cross of the Jade Order, a decoration never before awarded to a foreigner, reports a Transoceanic magazine.

RIP TIDE (Continued from Page 9).

Then without warning, before she realised what was happening, he kissed her. She pulled herself away from him. Again he kissed her and then she faced him sternly.

"What makes you think you can get away with that?"

"I wanted to—I've been wanting to all along."

"You've spoiled everything," she said. "And just when I was having such a glorious time."

"When girls like you turn into prudes—"

"I'm not a prude. Just because I don't want to kiss you, you have no right to say that. You're crazy."

"All right, be cross. This swell marriage has gone to your head."

"Perhaps," said Mary gently, "it has gone to my heart."

"As it should," said Tommy, with a sudden change in mood. "I'm sorry, Mary, if I offended you. My one excuse is that I lost my head. Don't take it too seriously, dear. Let's be friends."

She held out her hand and he took it gently in his.

"We'll forget it," she said. "I'm fond of you, Tommy—I always have been. It was my fault as much as yours. This place goes to one's head."

"Yes,—and not altogether yes," said Tommy, in a low voice. "I want to tell you, Mary, I'd marry you if you were free—and would have me. I've never said that to any woman, before. I've never felt this way about any one in all my life."

Mary was touched, but her instinct told her to make light of this.

"Why me of all people?" she asked.

"Because you have breadth and understanding and you know what it's all about. You're honest and you can laugh."

His arm had gone round her and he drew her, unresisting, to him. He kissed her tenderly. She must do something. This could not go on.

"I'd like a drink," she said. "Will you get me one?"

"It will be yours in a moment," he said as he made a dash for the bar.

But when he returned he saw Mary running toward the drive. He followed her, but she had a head start. She jumped into her car and was down the road as fast as she could go. He leaped into his car and was off, after her.

CHAPTER VI.

Erskine, who had seen Mary running for her car pursued by Tommy, dashed after them and just managed to jump on the running board of the latter's car as it sprang forward at terrific speed.

"What do you want, honey?" demanded Tommy in an ominous tone.

"To keep you from making more of a fool of yourself and a scandal of Lady Delford than you already have," came the firm reply.

"If you're interested, you may like to know this affair of yours has created quite a buzz."

Tommy made no reply. All his attention was concentrated on keeping up with Mary's car. Erskine was silent because it was perilous keeping his foothold at such break-neck speed.

Mary won the race and as Tommy leaped from his car and ran into the lobby of the hotel, the elevator door slammed shut behind her. Not waiting for another car, he dashed up the stairs, followed by Erskine.

He reached the corridor just as she ran into her suite, closed the door and turned the lock. It could not be said that Tommy knocked on the door—he banged. There was no sound from within.

"Stop these wild carrying-ons!" said Erskine, taking him by the arm. "She evidently has no intention of opening the door and you can't batter it down."

Tommy muttered something which sounded like a curse, but he did follow Erskine into their suite. He went directly to the telephone and when the office answered, asked for Room 380. Mary, who had sunk down on a chaise longue, all but exhausted, picked up the receiver.

When she heard Tommy's voice, she made no answer—except the very eloquent one of leaving the receiver off the hook. She waited a few minutes. Then she replaced the receiver and asked the operator to put through a call for Lord Rexford at his hotel in Washington. Then she left the receiver off again.

"Won't get your call that way," warned Celeste, the faithful maid who had kept house for her and Sylvia in New York, and who had joined her in London soon after her marriage.

"They say it will take two hours," she explained. "He'll calm down by then."

"A fine place this is, for all its looks," complained Celeste. "Drunks beating on doors. I was scared."

"Well, he is a home product," laughed Mary. "You remember Tommy Trent, don't you?"

"Oh, that one! No wonder. I always thought he was daffy."

Tommy, meanwhile, was pacing up and down the room. His eyes were wild. He was raving incoherently. Slick, his valet, was not unaccustomed to his erratic behaviour at times, but this went beyond anything he had ever seen. He stared at him round-eyed.

"To bed, you!" thundered Tommy as he suddenly noticed Slick. He was glad to go, but he went out shaking his head.

"Tommy, calm down," said Erskine pleadingly. "You can't do anything. If she doesn't want to see you, that is well within her right."

"Calm down!" raged Tommy. "Who are you to tell me what to do? Whenever I find something—the moment I find I really like it—I must have it—away it pops."

"She's married," said Erskine. "So was Cleopatra. That girl was all I needed."

"Cleopatra? Never supposed you knew her," said Erskine. He was hoping, so mercurial could Tommy's moods be, that he could make him laugh. If he could do that, all might yet be well.

But Tommy did not laugh. He glared at Erskine. He would not give up yet.

"You can write her off your next income tax report, as an unavoidable loss."

Tommy gave no sign of having heard this would-be facetious remark. He kept on pacing the long floor and talking, half to himself, half to Erskine.

"She trembled—she fluttered like a leaf—"

"Well she'll tremble and she'll flutter just as well to-morrow."

"Not this one. She has conscience writ large on her. At this moment— I know her, I tell you—she's cooling off like some volcano that's changed its mind about wiping out a lot of Italian villages."

"I don't see what you can do about that—volcano or this pretty woman."

"You wouldn't!" said Tommy scornfully. "You're just like everybody else—everybody but me. You want something but only in a half-hearted way. If you can't have it, you give in and mope around until you find something else you want. Well, I'm not that kind. When I want a thing, I want it and I've got the guts to fight for it."

"Nobody gets everything he wants," said Erskine.

"Says who?" demanded Tommy. "You'll see! I will not be thwarted."

"Of course you can phone her," said Erskine sarcastically.

It was the worst thing he could have said. What little sanity was left in Tommy Trent, went. He looked wildly around the room. Then as his eye fell on one of the long French windows leading out on the balcony, his face lighted up.

"Why didn't I think of it before!" he said and suddenly burst into a loud laugh.

Erskine gave a sigh of relief—Tommy had laughed! But his feeling of relaxed tension was of short duration. Tommy rushed out on the balcony; Erskine following.

"See," said Tommy, indicating

MONOPOLY CRAZE IN MANCHUKUO.

Attempt To Control Price Of Cattle.

The craze for monopolies in Manchukuo continues unabated. It is now reported that an attempt is being made to form a company for controlling the purchase price of cattle.

At the same time, another "brain trust" is trying to engineer a monopoly for the merchandising of all patent medicines.

These schemes, together with that for a milk monopoly, launched under the misleading slogan of "pure milk," are but a few of the many masked attempts to corner various businesses to the detriment of public interest.

the parapet. "I can climb that. Why did I stand around wasting time, when all the while this blessed balcony and that other one and that other one awaited me."

Now Erskine was really alarmed. He knew Tommy, despite his wild life, was strong and lithe and agile. But to leap from one balcony to another—and to another! It spelled suicide. He grasped Tommy's arm with both his hands vice-like.

"You'll kill yourself!" he said. "She's worth it."

"No woman is worth it—no woman ever was."

"I can make it—I will make it!" declared Tommy, as if his friend had not spoken. He shook off the restraining hands, and ran back on the parapet, in preparation for a running jump. Erskine, frozen with terror was motionless, as Tommy took the leap.

He made it! The next jump was a longer one. "Don't try that one!" shouted Erskine.

He saw Tommy run—leap—There was a thundering crash as something hit an awning two floors below and crashed on a marble floor.

ANOTHER HIT FOR MARCUS SHOW

Comedians Rock Full House With Laughter.

CLEVER ACROBATIC ACT

The Greater Marcus Show, with its bevy of beautiful chorines, clever dancers, acrobats, comedians and singers, continues to be the biggest drawing card in the Colony's entertainment.

Playing to a crowded house last night, the Extravaganza Francals, "La Vie Paree", scored yet another success. It would be invidious to select any particular ensemble for outstanding merit. Each episode was a masterpiece of stage-setting with youth and beauty to set off the striking costumes.

The "big band", however, was obviously extended to the comedians, Ben McAtee and Leon Miller, who, with their quips and jests and clever tap dancing, kept the house roaring with laughter.

The Bounding Ali Babas, in their clever acrobatic act, was another outstanding item on the programme, while Les Sechrist, with his accordion was twice forced to return to the stage in response to the audience's demand for encores.

The claim of Mr. A. B. Marcus that the troupe is the best ever brought to the Far East is well-founded, and judging from the appreciation demonstrated by the audience, the Queen's Theatre is assured of capacity bookings for the full run of the show.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS TARIFF BILL.

Wider Powers For President.

INEXPLICABLE DELAY.

SPECIAL TO CHINA MAIL.
 (By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received June 13, 4.22 a.m.)

Washington, To-day.
 The White House yesterday announced that President Roosevelt would sign the Tariff Bill to-night. It was originally scheduled for signature yesterday. The delay is not explained. —United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

WIDE POWERS FOR ROOSEVELT.
 Washington, To-day.

President Roosevelt has signed the Tariff Bill.

The Bill gives the President powers to negotiate reciprocal tariff and trade agreements with foreign countries.

These powers include:

1. To enter into foreign trade agreements with foreign Governments.

2. To proclaim modification of existing duties (not exceeding 50 per cent.) or other import restrictions as are required to carry out the proposed foreign trade agreements.

The President would not have authority to transfer articles from the free list to a dutiable list, or vice versa, under the terms of the Bill, but the threat that such action might be recommended to Congress would be a potential bargaining instrument for the President.
